

Functionalism: A system is conscious by virtue of playing the role of consciousness within a larger physical system. (Or something; I don't understand functionalism.)

