

How would you feel if I took posts from >2 years ago that I wanted to heavily revise and sent out a new "edition"? (Bearing in mind that I won't realistically be motivated enough to actually do the revising if it's just to update an old post and no one will read the update.)

